

Swarovski Foundation Waterschool Australia

Open to all schools in NSW to apply

The Swarovski Foundation Waterschool Australia program involves:

- Teacher training with Indigenous and Earthwatch Australia water experts
- School grants for program-related activities
- Creation and presentation of peer-teaching workshops
- School events and online platforms to present workshops to peers
- Access to a Global Curriculum of program-related teaching materials
- Planning and creation of environmental action projects at school
- Young Australians becoming local, national, and global Water Ambassadors

We are currently accepting applications from teachers to participate in this water literacy and student empowerment program (begins February 2024).

Swarovski Foundation Waterschool Australia

Workshop planning session

In preparation for this session:

- Ensure you have taught at least one Module from the SWS Global Curriculum
- Pass on any relevant information from the online teacher training sessions
- Have initial conversations with students to decide on a water topic
- If more than one class is involved, allocate a specific water topic to each group
- Have a key message (one sentence) each group would like to share with peers in relation to their water topic i.e. what they want others to DO or LEARN
- Before the session, please show this short video of an exemplar peer-teaching workshop to all students participating in workshop planning so they have an idea of the workshop purpose and structure:

- Please have available (for each group if possible):
 - a large whiteboard
 - pens and paper
 - at least one teacher/staff member to fill in the Workshop Template form
- Following the workshop planning session, please send the completed Workshop Template form(s) to the Program Manager at lleary@earthwatch.org.au
